From Strategic Planning to Personal Reflection

Is your organization where you want to be? Are YOU where you want to be, personally and with your team? During this session we will discover how Toyota and other organizations use the “Hoshin Kanri” process to better understand where they are and where they want to be.

The session will review how the Hoshin process can be applied to 3 levels of management:

- Personal
- Team
- Organizational

Darril Wilburn, Managing Partner, Honsha Associates

Darril Wilburn was a leader in the development and implementation of some of Toyota Motor Manufacturing’s highest profile leadership development programs. Darril led the Toyota Way 2001 (Toyota core values and principles) implementation at Toyota’s largest manufacturing plant in North America. Darril worked with The Toyota Institute in Japan to develop the Toyota Business Practice (TBP) leading the global pilot of this program as well as the North American Senior Executive sessions. While at Toyota, Darril studied the Toyota Production System as a student of OMDD, Toyota’s internal Sensei group. As a Managing Partner at Honsha, Darril has had the opportunity to work with the public and private sector on projects that reflect the current global economic condition including a lecture series for Harvard Business Review in Latin America. Darril is also co-author and co-editor of the recently released book, Toyota by Toyota.
